The top scene on the left was teken in back of Mr. & Mrs. Charles Schmidt's home in Lake Worth. Mrs. James Monroe and Mr. Schmidt were out looking over the good collection of container grown hibiscus.

The bottom scene is inside Mr. D. U. Donaldson's plastic greenhouse at Vero Beach. Mr. Donaldson is checking over some of his bloom. Mr. Donaldson says it is not the way you hold your mouth that gets the big size of his bloom - - it is the way you wear your cap.

"Music is in all growing things;
And underneath the silky wings
Of smallest insects there is stirred
A pulse of air that must be heard;
Earth's silence lives, and throbs, and sings."
